

Office Spotlight

For the first quarter of 2026, we would like to recognize Emily Davisson. Emily is the administrative assistant, and she is likely the first person you will come across in our corporate office. She also works in human resources and is the site manager for Buckeye CDL testing center. She has been with JRayl since September of 2024 and found JRayl through Indeed as she was looking for a professional office position. Not only does Emily handle her day-to-day position, but she takes pride in organizing office functions and decorating the office and driver areas for holidays.

Some of Emily's favorite aspects of her job include working with drivers, helping them solve problems, and learning about their lifestyle on the road. She gets to learn more about the trucking industry by assisting with the Driver Experience Team (DET) and retention, being one of the first points of contact through recruitment and onboarding processes, and working closely with the state through Buckeye CDL. Emily is also knowledgeable through all stages of employment for both office staff and drivers. This includes conducting screenings and interviews and several other HR functions.

She is also heavily involved in planning large scale events such as the Driver Appreciation every year. This is no surprise as Emily will jump in to help in any way she can, wherever she can. Planning these events at each terminal takes careful thought, time, and consideration. She is an extremely positive person who is well liked by her coworkers and the driver community. Emily says she remains positive because of the support she gets at work. She is thankful for the opportunities to help as she feels supported by the whole office and her boss.

When Emily isn't at work she has a lot of hobbies. During the summer months, you will likely find Emily outside, whether that is hiking or swimming. During the winter and cold months, Emily enjoys crafts such as sewing and crocheting, reading crime thrillers, and watching cartoons to bounce back from those crime thrillers. She has also taken up learning to play the piano and is familiar with the guitar. Her creativity isn't limited and we are able to see it in the workplace as well.

We appreciate all the hard work, dedication, and involvement that Emily has put into JRayl!
